Institute of Power Engineers?

The Institute of Power Engineers is a Canada wide non-profit organization dedicated to promoting the public awareness of the role played by Power Engineers in our power dependent economy. In most provinces we are referred to as Power Engineers and it is a profession with an early-established history.

Who are our members?

Our members are mostly Power Engineers. We do not affiliate with any labour organization and therefore are the true voice of Power Engineering. Our membership consists of union, non-union, and associated members. The IPE fosters business relations, provides technical presentations and promotes the exchange of technical skills and knowledge among members.
